Press-Radio-TV

The Carolina Tar Heels traditionally have one of the largest and most enthusiastic press followings of any team in the country. Basketball is big in our State.

Newspapers, radio and television reporters across the state (and the entire nation) keep daily tabs on the progress of Dean Smith and his men in Carolina blue.

The Carmichael Auditorium press box is filled to capacity for every home game. More than 40 radio stations in three states carry The Tar Heel Basketball Network. Woody Durham, popular sportscaster at WFMY-TV in Greensboro, handles the play-by-play in excellent fashion. Jim Heavner of WCHL Radio in Chapel Hill is the color man.

Durham also serves as emcee throughout the season on The Dean Smith Show which is televised each week across the state of North Carolina.

Working press credentials for Carolina home games can be secured by contacting Jack Williams, the University's Sports Information Director. Requests are screened with care to insure a working press box. Children, wives and pets are not allowed in compliance with the working code of the Basketball Writers Association of America.

THE ACC'S FIVE BEST EVER

Three are Tar Heels

Three former Carolina superstars—Charlie Scott, Lennie Rosenbluth and Billy Cunningham—have joined David Thompson of N.C. State and Art Heyman of Duke on an all-time Atlantic Coast Conference basketball team chosen by area sportswriters and broadcasters.

Ninety-seven members of the media in the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Maryland picked a first and second team in the poll. A first team selection received two points and a second team pick received one.

The second team includes Len Chappell of Wake Forest, Jeff Mullins of Duke, John Roche of South Carolina, Larry Miller of Carolina and Ron Shavlik of N.C. State.

Heading the first team is the impeccable Thompson, who led the Wolfpack to the national championship last season. He is the only unanimous choice on the squad, receiving 96 1/2 first team votes. One writer picked a ten-man first team, giving Thompson 193 points.

Thompson has twice been named ACC Player of the Year and last season was National Player of the Year. He led the conference in scoring as both a sophomore and junior.

Scott finished second in the balloting with 150 points. He received 64 first place votes. Scott is regarded as perhaps the finest all-around player in Tar Heel history. A tremendously quick athlete, Charlie was an excellent defender, a brilliant passer and one of the greatest clutch players in the college game.

He turned in perhaps the greatest performance in the history of the ACC Tournament in 1969 when he almost single-handedly lifted Carolina to an 85-74 victory over Duke in the Finals. He scored 27 of his 40 points in the second half as the Tar Heels overcame a nine-point halftime deficit to win.

The very next week it was Scott's last-second jumper which gave Carolina an 87-85 win over Davidson in the finals of the Eastern Regional. He had 32 points in that game.

Scott was three times chosen on the All-ACC team and the league's Athlete of the Year in his senior season. Charlie ranks second in both career scoring and career assists at Carolina and tenth in rebounding.

Heyman was the third leading vote-getter with 144 points. In his senior season he led the Blue Devils to a national third-place finish in the NCAA Tournament. He led the league in scoring that year with an average of 24.9 and was named Player of the Year.

Heyman was named to both the All-ACC and All-ACC Tournament teams for three consecutive seasons. He holds the Duke career scoring record with 1,984 points, an average of 25.1 for his career.

Rosenbluth trailed Heyman in the voting with 137 points. He led the Tar Heels to the NCAA title and a 32-0 record in 1957 when he was named National Player of the Year. Rosenbluth was an all-conference selection for three years. He still holds the career scoring record at Carolina with 2,045 points. His career scoring average was 26.9.

Rosenbluth's 27.9 scoring average in his senior season is the highest ever by a Tar Heel. He also set school records that year for free throws and field goals.

He was sensational in the ACC Tournament that year, scoring a record 106 points in the three games. His 45 points against Clemson in the first round also is still the ACC record. He added 38 in the finals against South Carolina.

His greatest performance, however, came in the semi-finals. Carolina's 27 game winning streak seemed to be at an end when Wake Forest took a 59-58 lead with only 46 seconds to play. The Tar Heels were unable to get off a shot against the tough Deacon zone defense until Rosenbluth tossed in a 20-foot hook shot from the top of the key with only 11 seconds left. He was fouled, completed the three-point play and gave the Tar Heels a 61-59 win.

Completing the first team is Cunningham with 128 points. The Kangaroo Kid made the All-ACC team three times and was Player of the Year as a senior. He twice led the league in scoring and is the only player ever to lead the ACC in rebounding for three consecutive years.

During his Tar Heel career, Cunningham grabbed 1,062 rebounds for an average of 15.4 per game. Both of those marks are school records.

The second team features three players who were two times named ACC Player of the Year—Miller, Roche and Chappell. Shavlik and Mullins won the same honor once.

A total of 38 players, representing eight schools, received votes in the poll. Only two active players, Thompson and Maryland backcourt star John Lucas, received votes.

Other Carolina players receiving votes include Bobby Jones, Robert McAdoo, Doug Moe, Lee Shaffer and Bob Lewis.

NOTHING COULD BE FINER THAN BASKETBALL AT CAROLINA.

Pride and prestige!

That's the story of basketball at the University of North Carolina where Tar Heel teams have made national headlines and have ranked for many years among the elite of the college game.

Basketball is a boom sport in our town..And if you don't believe it, just check these facts and figures:

Since the sport began in 1911, Carolina has recorded a record of 1,053 wins and only 432 losses. Fifty-four of the school's 64 teams have had winning records.

Only six other teams have topped the 1,000 mark in victories. They are Kentucky, Kansas, Oregon State, St. John's, Pennsylvania and Duke.

The Tar Heels have played in a national championship tournament each of the past eight years. The 1967, 1968, 1969 and 1972 Tar Heel teams won the Atlantic Coast Conference and NCAA Eastern Regional Championships enroute to the national finals. The 1970, 1971, 1973 and 1974 teams went to the National Invitational Tournament in New York and swept the big prize there in 1971.

Carolina has won five Eastern Regional NCAA Tournaments since 1946. No other team has won more than three.

In the past eight years under the guidance of Dean Smith, Carolina has won 201 games while losing only 49. That's an average of 25-6 a year, one of the most amazing marks in collegiate athletics.

The Tar Heels are one of only five teams in the nation to capture both an National Collegiate Athletics Association and NIT championship. The Tar Heels won the NCAA in 1957 with a perfect 32-0 record and then swept the NIT in 1971, defeating Georgia Tech in the finals.

The Tar Heels have managed these feats against the toughest opposition in America. For example, each of the past eight years, the Tar Heel schedule has been ranked among the toughest 10 schedules in the country.

Carolina plays big-name foes from coast-to-coast. The Tar Heels meet such national powers as UCLA, Kentucky, Ohio State, Purdue, St. Joseph's, St. John's, Houston, Florida State, Duquesne, Princeton, Kansas, Notre Dame, Louisville, Utah, West Virginia, Oregon State, California and many more.

But nowhere is the competition tougher than in the Tar Heels' own backyard—the Atlantic Coast Conference. Teams in that league besides Carolina are Maryland, Wake Forest, Duke, North Carolina State, Clemson and Virginia.

The Tar Heel fame in basketball has even spread abroad. In 1971 the Tar Heels went to Madrid, Spain and captured the championship of the International Christmas Tournament against teams from Spain and Brazil.

The Tar Heels have been invited back to that tournament this season and will compete in Madrid on Dec. 24-25-26.

Carolina has had a player on each of the last three U.S. Olympic teams. Larry Brown, now the coach of the Denver team of the ABA, starred on the 1964 team which won the championship at Tokyo. Charlie Scott was a member of the 1968 champions at Mexico City. Then Bobby Jones played on the Olympic club at Munich in 1972 which barely lost to the Russians in a disputed game.

There have been dozens of all-America players at Carolina. There have been seven in the Dean Smith era alone. They are Billy Cunningham, Bob Lewis, Larry Miller, Charlie Scott, Dennis Wuycik, Robert McAdoo and the star of last year's team, Bobby Jones.

The crowds which turn out to see the Tar Heels play are proof of the popularity of the sport in Chapel Hill. Every game is a sellout in beautiful Carmichael Auditorium. Students sleep in the gym the night before tickets go on sale to make sure they get tickets to the big games.

In 64 years of basketball competition, Carolina teams have swept 33 championships. That's another reason why nothing could be finer than basketball at Carolina.

PROSPECT

and here we go again

The University of North Carolina, a perennial power in college basketball, matches a talented cast against a backbreaking schedule in 1974-75 and hopes to wind up again among the nation's elite.

Coach Dean Smith's men in Carolina blue have been a dominant factor in Atlantic Coast Conference basketball for many years, winning five of the last eight regular season titles and capturing the tournament championship four times in that span. The Tar Heels have played in a national tournament eight successive years.

But Carolina now faces the task of replacing four outstanding graduates, one of them the great Bobby Jones, an all-America forward regarded as one of the most complete players in Tar Heel history. He and another graduate, guard Darrell Elston led the 1973-74 team in scoring and Jones was the Tar Heels' leading rebounder. They, too, were among the best defensive players on the team.

Jones' cat-like quickness made him one of the premier players in the college game. He was picked in the first round by the Houston Rockets in the recent NBA draft and Elston was selected by Atlanta in the third round.

Two other graduating seniors, forward John O'Donnell and guard Ray Hite were part-time starters and contributed in large measure to the Carolina success as the Tar Heels posted an overall record of 22-6 last season, and tied Maryland for second in the ACC race.

Carolina has also lost its other starting backcourt player of a year ago, Ray Harrison, a 6-2 rising senior from Greensboro, N.C. He will sit out the season on the advice of doctors, but should return to action in 1975. Smith calls his loss a major blow.

The Tar Heel squad got another jolt during the off-season when highly-regarded Donald Washington was declared scholastically ineligible. He has since joined professional basketball ranks.

Still Smith feels that Carolina will have another good team next winter. But he warns that the Atlantic Coast Conference will be stronger than ever. "We should be one of four or five teams in contention," he says. "And all of us, of course, will be trying to fight off North Carolina State's bid for another national championship."

The Tar Heel schedule is competitive. In addition to 12 regular season games against rugged ACC opponents, Carolina will play conference teams twice more in the Big Four Tournament. Early in December, the Tar Heels will play road games against nationally ranked opponents, Kentucky and Houston.

Leading the Tar Heel returnees will be three players who figured prominently in last year's success. They are forward Ed Stahl, 6-10 of Columbus, Ohio; forward Mitch Kupchak, 6-9 of Brentwood, N.Y.; and forward-guard Walter Davis, 6-5 of Charlotte, N.C.

Davis was an explosive player for the Tar Heels as a freshman and should be even better with the year of experience behind him. He averaged 14.3 in scoring last year, hitting an even 50 percent of his shots. He also excelled as a rebounder with 126 and had 72 assists.

Kupchak and Stahl alternated as starters at one of the front-court positions last year and performed quite well. Kupchak was the team's second leading rebounder with 19, and he scored at a 10.1 clip. Stahl had 131 rebounds while scoring at a 7.2 average. Both must improve defensively.

Looking ahead to the season, Smith is concerned over rebounding. "We may go with three big men in the lineup at the same time on occasion," he says. "That, of course, will make us a stronger rebounding team, but would weaken us in other ways. I'm concerned that we won't have as much speed as we have in the past. There are few big men in the game with the type of speed Bobby Jones has."

Carolina will have three big men in the 6-8 to 6-11 range and this is sure to be one of the team's strong points. In addition to Stahl and Kupchak, the other is 6-9 Tommy LaGarde, a rising sophomore who played sparingly a year ago.

"I feel we have fine young talent," Smith said, "but many of these players still have to prove themselves. Some of them didn't perform as well as expected with the junior varsity team."

Joining in the battle for the quarterback position will be senior Brad Hoffman, 5-10 of Columbus, Ohio; junior Dave Hanners, 6-0 also of Columbus, Ohio; sophomore John Kuester, 6-2 of Richmond, Va., and freshman Phil Ford, 6-2 of Rocky Mount, N.C.

Two players will challenge for the "big guard" job. They are junior Billy Chambers, 6-5 of Greensboro, N.C. and freshman Tom Zaliagaris, 6-5 of Detroit, Mich., along with Kuester or Ford.

Davis is a possibility to play some at big guard, too, in addition to his work at the small forward position. Senior Mickey Bell, 6-5 of Goldsboro, N.C., also is sure to see some action at the small forward.

Carolina usually plays two post men in its offensive allignment. Stahl, Kupchak, and LaGarde are candidates for those spots along with sophomore Bruce Buckley, 6-8 of Bladensburg, Md.

Another player who could figure in Tar Heel plans is senior Charles Waddell, 6-6 of Southern Pines, N.C. He is an all-America candidate at tight end in football and will join the basketball squad later following the completion of the football season.

FEREBEE TAYLOR

CHANCELLOR

The top fan of the Carolina Tar Heels is also the top man on the UNC campus—Chancellor N. Ferebee Taylor.

"I'm proud of our athletic tradition," the Chancellor says, "and our basketball teams have always given us a lot to cheer about."

Basketball Coach Dean Smith hails Chancellor Taylor as one of his team's biggest boosters.

"We're happy that we have a chancellor who feels so strongly about athletics," says Smith. "He visits our practices regularly and rarely ever misses a game."

The Chancellor feels that the athletic department is an important part of the total University and expresses a hope that all students will make use of what it offers, either as participants or as spectators.

"At the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, we will continue to strive for excellence in our athletic department just as we will in all other departments," the Chancellor says.

Chancellor Taylor is a graduate of the University of North Carolina, receiving an A.B. in American History in 1942. He was the first Jackson Scholar at Carolina (this scholarship was the first four-year grant) and he served as president of Phi Beta Kappa, making straight A's for three straight years.

He was president of the University Club, speaker of the Student Legislature and a member of the Order of the Golden Fleece and the Order of the Grail.

The Chancellor served in the Navy during World War II and reached the rank of lieutenant. After being released from active duty, he entered the Harvard Law School and received the LL.B. cum laude in 1949.

He then enrolled in Balliol College at Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar, receiving his B.A. in philosophy, politics and economics in 1951. He received his M.A. from Oxford in 1955.

Chancellor Taylor then practiced law in New York City until returning to Carolina in the spring of 1968 as a visiting professor at the UNC Law School.

He was named administrative vice president of the Consolidated University in 1970 and served in that position until being unanimously selected by the Board of Trustees as the new Chancellor. He replaced J. Carlyle Sitterson.

In his administrative job with the Consolidated University, Chancellor Taylor had served as a legal advisor to the Consolidated University and had acted as a liaison between the Board of Trustees and its committees.

Since assuming his present position, Chancellor Taylor has placed special emphasis on the public service aspect of the University. Many short courses, workshops and special projects have been organized, serving the entire State of North Carolina and its five and a half million people as well as the students and residents of the University community.

Chancellor Taylor is married to the former Louise C. Ellington, and they have three daughters, Louise, 21; Sarah, 17; and Martha, 14.

HOMER RICE

ATHLETIC DIRECTOR

The University of North Carolina's man for all seasons is Homer Rice, a dynamic figure who ranks as one of the nation's most highly-respected athletic administrators.

Now nearing the end of his sixth season as Tar Heel Director of Athletics, Rice has a long record of achievements and is looking to the future as he strives to keep Carolina among the country's collegiate athletic powers.

For three years in a row (1971, 1972 and 1973), Rice directed Carolina to the Carmichael Cup, the award symbolic of overall athletic excellence in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Winning is nothing new to Homer Rice. He has been a winner in every job he has undertaken. He revolutionized football offenses with the Triple Option during an illustrious coaching career. Now he has gained new fame as an administrator.

Since he has been at Carolina, he has brought about more than 30 additions and improvements to athletic facilities, has helped push Carolina among the leaders in the nation in fund-raising for athletic scholarships and has charted the course for future success.

Last spring, Carolina became a pioneer in collegiate athletics when it awarded its first athletic scholarship to a young lady—Camey Timberlake, a tennis star from Lexington, N.C. Rice has been a big booster of women's athletics since he arrived on the Tar Heel scene.

Rice always has been a strong believer in the total athletic program. This is evident by Carolina's improved showing in recent years in the non-revenue sports. Carolina has a 21-sport varsity men's and women's program, one of the largest on a college campus in the United States.

"We invite every student on the Carolina campus to be a part of our program," Rice says, "either as a participant or as a follower of our teams. Traditionally, Carolina has fantastic school spirit and this, in large measure, is responsible for the success of our teams."

Despite his busy schedule in Chapel Hill, Rice finds time to serve in other capacities on the national level. He is a member of the NCAA's prestigious Television committee, is involved with the United States Congress as a member of the joint committee on athletics and education and serves on various other national committees. He also is a member of the executive committee of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of America.

Rice is the third man to head the Carolina athletic program in more than 50 years. The late Coach Bob Fetzer was the first, serving from 1922 until 1951. Chuck Erickson succeeded him and held the job until his retirement in mid-1968.

A native of Ft. Thomas, Ky., Rice is the son of a Methodist minister. After serving with the Navy in the Pacific in World War II, he attended Centre College and made the Little All-America Team as a quarterback on the football team. He received an A.B. degree from Centre and B.S. and M.E. degrees from Eastern Kentucky State College.

Following his graduation, Rice played three seasons of professional baseball in the old Brooklyn Dodgers' chain. Then he began his career as a football coach.

He coached at Wartburg Central High in Tennessee, Spring City High

Mr. Basketball

DEAN SMITH

Phog Allen, Hank Iba, Clair Bee, Adolph Rupp, Branch McCracken, and John Wooden!

Those are among the most famous names in college basketball, coaches whose innovations have changed the game and brought them great glory in battles on the court.

Now, add the name Dean Smith. He is Mr. Basketball at the University of North Carolina and a revolutionist in the world of college basketball.

Don't take my word for it. Listen to what another noted coach had to say. Joe Williams, the current coach at Furman University who took Jacksonville University to the national finals against UCLA, said this:

"Whenever I think of college basketball, I automatically think of Dean Smith. He is the greatest innovator in the game today. He's in a class with John Wooden. In one way or another, every coach in the Atlantic Coast Conference has copied his style. Just watch the games and you will see how all the ACC teams do things in the Dean Smith fashion."

Smith's tactics have paid handsome dividends for him and for the University of North Carolina. His men in Carolina blue have swept five of the last eight ACC regular season championships and have won the tournament championship four times in that span. Each of the four times the Tar Heels won the ACC tournament, they also captured the NCAA Eastern Regional crown and went to the last four in the nation.

Smith has carried Carolina to a national tournament each of the last eight years. The Tar Heels went to the National Invitational in New York in 1970, 1971, 1973 and 1974, winning the big prize there in 1971.

Smith is now beginning his 14th season at the Tar Heel helm. In the previous seasons, he has guided Carolina to an astonishing record of 267 victories against only 96 defeats. That averages out to a record of 20-7 each year.

Some coaches in the college game would be delighted to have one 20-victory season. Smith averages that many every year.

There have been only six coaches in America to take a team to the final four in NCAA play as many as four times. Smith accomplished the feat in 11 years on the job. Hank Iba did it four times in 32 years, Jack Gardner four times in 29 years, Fred Taylor four times in 15 years and John Wooden 11 times in 25 years.

How does Smith work all this magic? It is a combination of things. He has tremendous rapport with his players, he is a masterful teacher and his style of play gets amazing results.

Carolina teams under Smith are noted for unselfish play, team morale and aggressive man-for-man defense. Although the Tar Heels specialize in a whirlwind fast break, they have a disciplined offense and usually lead the nation in field goal percentage. The Tar Heels also have led the ACC in scoring five of the last eight years.

Among Smith's many innovations are his run and jump defense; the mixing of pressure defense after a field goal; the point zone; the four-corners all-purpose delay; team huddles at the foul line; and foul shot alignment. His free lance passing game innovation has attracted much attention recently.

His defensive and offensive schemes are constantly studied by other coaches across the country. Many outstanding college coaches visit the Carolina campus during the off-season to get tips from Smith. Even professional coaches have sought his advice and counsel.

In fact, Smith has been offered numerous other college coaching jobs and a few head coaching positions in professional basketball. He has turned them all down and says he has no desire to coach in the pros.

"The big enjoyment in this business is working with young players," Smith says. "I take special pride in the development of all of them. I've always been very happy living in Chapel Hill."

A native of Emporia, Kans., Smith attended the University of Kansas on an academic scholarship. He played freshman football and varsity basketball and baseball there. He was a member of the Kansas basketball team which won the national championship in 1952 and finished second in 1953.

Smith was assistant basketball coach and baseball coach at the Air Force Academy in 1958 when he was brought to Carolina by Frank McGuire, then the Tar Heels' head coach. When McGuire left to join the professional ranks in 1961, Smith was named the head coach.

His first team, caught with mediocre material, had an 8-9 record. There have been no more Carolina losers under Smith and the odds are that there never will be.

His Carolina teams have swept an unbelievable total of 16 tournament championships since he took the head job. In 1972, the Tar Heels captured five tournament titles in one year. They swept the Big Four Tournament at Greensboro, the International Christmas Tournament in Madrid, Spain, the Sugar Bowl Tournament in New Orleans, the ACC and the NCAA Eastern Regionals.

Smith, 43, is a good will ambassador for the University of North Carolina. He is called upon to lecture at basketball clinics all over the world. He has been a member of the national rules committee. Smith makes hundreds of speeches each year. His basketball camp for youngsters at Carolina is so popular that he never advertises it.

Dean has developed a keen interest in theology and he reads every book he can find on the subject. He often takes time from his busy schedule to have lunch or dinner with a religion professor. He finds their conversation stimulating.

In his spare time, Smith plays golf, shooting in the 70s. He also enjoys tennis, spinning records and reading books on a variety of subjects.

Smith is extremely proud of his three children, Sharon, 19; Sandy, 18; and Scott, 16.

BILL GUTHRIDGE

Assistant Coach

One of the brightest young coaches in the college game is Bill Guthridge, Dean Smith's chief assistant at the University of North Carolina.

Guthridge is entering his eighth year on the Tar Heel staff and second as Smith's top aide. During his first six years at UNC, Guthridge served as a co-assistant coach with John Lotz, now the head man at the University of Florida.

"Bill is one of the top coaches in America, and that includes head coaches as well as assistants," says Smith. "His record as an assistant here and at Kansas State has been tremendous. He has made great contributions to both programs."

In his seven years at Carolina, Guthridge has helped guide the Tar Heels to seven straight post-season tournaments, three Atlantic Coast Conference championships and the National Invitational Tournament title in 1971.

In addition to assisting with the varsity, Guthridge has also coached Carolina freshman and junior varsity teams. Smith gives him much of the credit for helping develop the players who have kept Carolina in the upper echelon of the national basketball powers.

Guthridge's teams at UNC compiled a record of 72-25 and were the Big Four champions four out of six years.

Prior to coming to Chapel Hill, Bill had been an assistant on the Kansas State staff. During his time there the Wildcats won 93 games, lost only 43, swept two Big Eight titles and once advanced to the NCAA semi-finals.

A native of Parsons, Kansas, Bill played his high school basketball for Harold Johnson. Johnson and his brother, Gene, were the innovators of the zone press in the 1930's.

Guthridge went on to start for Kansas State in the years the Wildcats reigned as Big Eight champions—1958, 1959, and 1960. He was chosen as one of the University's 13 most outstanding all-around seniors.

Following his graduation, Bill coached for two years at Scott City High before returning to his alma mater as an assistant to the famed Tex Winter.

Besides working with Winter and Smith, two of the great names in coaching, Guthridge has also gained valuable experience in Puerto Rico where he has twice coached in summer leagues. On one occasion he was named Coach of the Year and was invited to coach the Puerto Rican team in the 1968 Olympics. However, he had to turn the offer down because of his work here.

Guthridge is a master strategist and works closely with Smith in all phases of the Tar Heel program. He has turned down several major college coaching jobs and has had his name withdrawn from consideration from others.

"Not only is Bill an astute basketball technician," says Smith, "but he also is an excellent teacher. He is highly respected by the players who have been through our program. He is sincere in his recruiting and I think this has made him a favorite of prospective student-athletes and their families."

Unlike many coaches, Guthridge says he actually enjoys recruiting.

"Some people say recruiting is undesirable," says Bill. "But my experiences have been very enjoyable. I think that has a lot to do with the type of young man which our University attracts."

Bill has a masters degree in education and has taken courses at Carolina toward his PhD.

While basketball is his game, Guthridge is also a keen follower of other sports. When he can find some spare time, he likes to play golf. Bill enjoys all collegiate sports and is an old St. Louis Cardinal baseball fan.

Guthridge has an excellent sense of humor and is one of the most popular after-dinner speakers in the athletic department.

Bill and his wife Leesie have two sons, Jamie, 14, and Stuart, 11, and a daughter, Megan, two-and-a-half.

EDDIE FOGLER

Assistant Coach

Eddie Fogler, a former star playmaker on Carolina basketball teams, helps call the plays from the bench these days as an assistant coach under Dean Smith.

He is starting his second season as a full-fledged Tar Heel assistant, having replaced John Lotz when he left the Tar Heels to become head coach of the Florida Gators.

"Eddie brings a bright mind to the coaching profession," says Tar Heel Head Man Dean Smith. "He really was like an assistant coach on the floor in his playing days here when he quarterbacked some of our championship teams. He's a hard worker and has great enthusiasm for the sport. I think he's got a great future in coaching."

A native of New York City, Fogler was a member of the Carolina varsity in 1968, 1969 and 1970. The 1968 and 1969 teams won Atlantic Coast Conference championships and went to the national finals.

When he was a player here, Fogler ranked as a clever ballhandler and a smart player on the court. He still ranks seventh among the all-time career assist leaders.

Following his graduation here in 1970, Eddie spent a year teaching and coaching at DeMatha High School in Washington, D.C. He was in charge of the DeMatha Junior Varsity.

He returned to Chapel Hill in the fall of 1971 as a graduate assistant. He worked that year with the Carolina freshmen and also helped with recruiting and scouting. He majored in math and received his masters degree in 1972.

Last year, he joined the Tar Heel staff as a full-time member and made a valuable contribution. He says he loves Chapel Hill and is perfectly happy here.

"I guess I day-dream about being a head coach," he says, "but that is in the far-distant future. Meanwhile, I couldn't find a better place to work than right here."

Fogler is one of the best-liked members of the athletic staff. He enjoys playing all sports in his spare-time. He's a bachelor.

JOHN LACEY

Head Trainer

John Lacey, trainer of the Carolina Tar Heels in basketball, is one of the nation's most respected men in his profession. He is now in his 18th season in Chapel Hill.

Lacey garnered one of the greatest honors of his career in 1972 when he was selected head trainer of the United States delegation to the Olympic Games in Munich, Germany. It was Lacey's second experience as trainer on Olympic teams. In 1964 he trained the Olympic basketball team which won the championship at Tokyo.

Throughout his career, Lacey has been associated with championship calibre athletes. He has worked with seven football bowl teams, including four at Carolina.

He has made five treks to the National Collegiate Basketball finals. He was there in 1957, 1967, 1968, 1969 and 1972 when the Carolina Tar Heels competed for the big prize.

Also included must be the National Invitational Tournament in which the Tar Heels won the championships in 1971.

Lacey was brought to Carolina in 1956 from Maryland when the late Jim Tatum was named head coach of the Tar Heels in football. He had worked closely with Tatum at Maryland.

While there, Lacey trained two Orange Bowl teams and a Sugar Bowl squad. He has always rubbed shoulders with champions.

A native of Wallingford, Conn., Lacey studied at the Yale University Department of Physical Therapy and at the Tilton School in Tilton, N.H.

Lacey is married to the former Barbara Koch of Wallingford and they are among the most popular citizens in the Chapel Hill community.

spain

The University of North Carolina is headed back to Spain where three years ago the Tar Heels won a championship tournament in one of the school's finest hours in sport.

On Dec. 24-25-26 of this year, Coach Dean Smith's Tar Heels will play in the International Christmas Tournament at Madrid, competing against three of Spain's finest teams.

All four teams in the tournament are former champions of the event. Real Madrid is the host team and the tournament will be played in its gym. The other two teams are Ignis de Varese of Morse and Innocenti of Milan.

The last time Carolina played in the tournament, the Tar Heels beat a powerful Real Madrid team in the finals by a score of 83-77. That was the Carolina team of 1971-72 which won the Atlantic Coast Conference and Eastern Regional Tournaments and went to the final four in the nation.

It will be a round robin tournament with each of the teams playing once against each of the others. The team that emerges with the best record will be the champion.

In 1971-72 Carolina won all three games, beating a team from Brazil and a team from Barcelona in addition to Real Madrid.

All of the games are played in Real Madrid's modern sports complex.

The Innocenti team will be going against an old friend when they face Smith's Tar Heels. Smith went to Milan this past summer and worked with the Innocenti team at a clinic. Bill Bradley, former Princeton star and currently with the New York Knicks, formerly played for the Innocenti team.

BASKETBALL MANIA

By JANE ALBRIGHT

Armed with a deck of cards and a dozen doughnuts from the all night doughnut stand, a Carolina student is sufficiently supplied for an all day or all night vigil at Carmichael Auditorium . . . just to get a chance for a ticket to see Tar Heel basketball.

In the midst of last year's energy crisis, one frantic Carolina alumnus wanted so desperately to go to the ACC Tournament that he was willing to trade 100 gallons of gas just for one ticket, or 400 gallons for four tickets. He couldn't find a taker.

Carolina basketball fans have been known to go to extremes to see the Tar Heels play in person. The fans' ingenuity has come up with several novel ideas for beating the system. Not many of them work.

Tickets for home games are at a premium since Carmichael Auditorium cannot hold all the fans who want inside. Students get in "free" with their athletic passes, but they pay a high price in patience and endurance.

On the days when tickets are distributed to students at 5 p.m., lines start forming during the early hours of the morning. Students bring anything that will help pass the time, including cards or needlepoint. Some will even try to study, while others might get a game of basketball going on the Carmichael floor. A few soap opera addicts will use elaborate extension cord systems to set up their portable TVs so they won't miss "All My Children" while they wait. With a few student ushers to keep order, it is a credit to Carolina students that this system of first-come-first-served works.

But when student tickets are distributed for a "Super ACC showdown," all pandemonium breaks loose and the system strains to keep order.

At these times, lines will form outside Carmichael the day before tickets go out, even before the sun goes down. This means an all night camp-out in usually bitterly cold weather. During this nocturnal hardship, pizza is delivered right to the scene and people fortify themselves with it and bring along peanut butter sandwiches. New friendships are made and the old ones strengthened in the cold and dark, for all these people have one thing in common—they want to see the Tar Heels play, no matter what.

Then there are those few students who want to see the Tar Heels play, but just don't feel up to the long wait.

In vain endeavors to be the first in line those times when people are spending the night outside, a few students have tried hiding out in the top seats of Carmichael, planning to let their friends inside later. Last year, one young man tried hiding in the wrestling mats kept in the janitor's closet. Some have even tried hiding in the restrooms by standing on the johns and crouching down low. Now, all these things are thoroughly checked.

The most popular and the riskiest method of trying to beat the system has been to take half a ticket and hold it so the missing part doesn't show. If luck holds, the person taking tickets will tear only the part that shows. Thus two people can get in for the "price" of one. This method has a high rate of failure.

Some students have gotten inside Carmichael the night of the game by pretending to be good friends of the team manager and going through the players' entrance. Now this is impossible.

Carolina students have posed as everything from Pinkerton guards to members of the State Bureau of Investigation to get inside Carmichael the night of a game. In 1957, when the Tar Heels went on to win the NCAA title, one student went to every game dressed as a Coca-Cola man.

Then there are those who claim to be on "official" business either as a scout or a member of the media. One group of ambitious Carolina fans dressed in blue pants and white shirts and claimed to be the cheerleaders! Some have even gone so far as to pose as the members of the opposite team!

Carolina students usually grow up to be Carolina alumni, and in the transition, never give up one speck of devotion to Tar Heel basketball. If anything, it gets worse.

But Carolina alumni aren't as tricky as their younger counterparts. They generally try to get in games honestly, through the ticket office. Hurt feelings occur when tickets simply can't be had. Then a Carolina alumnus has been known to pay scalper's prices for a ticket.

Which all goes to show, once a Tar Heel fan, always a Tar Heel fan, born and bred.

The Old Well

OUR CAMPUS

"In my mind I'm going to Carolina," sings James Taylor, and anyone who has ever lived in the shadows of the gnarled oaks, squirrels, rustic buildings and brick-covered walks of the campus knows what he means. For Carolina is more than just a place to the people who love it. It stands as a state of mind, that ideal place where youth and old traditions mix.

The grown-up village of Chapel Hill embraces the campus with its own unique air of openness and charm. The Franklin Street mystique is only a tolerance of mind which allows a man of conservative convictions to freely converse with a man of a more liberal strain.

Time Magazine has called Chapel Hill "one of the 20 most enjoyable places to live in the United States."

The school itself is the oldest state university in the nation, first admitting students in 1795 while George Washington was President. However, it was not until after Reconstruction that Carolina began making the rapid progress that has lifted it to the top of southern education.

There are currently 14 schools at Carolina and more than 70 departments and other academic affiliated divisions and institutes.

Strong in both the humanities and the sciences, the University also has a School of Business Administration of special potency, commensurate with the growing industrial might of the mid-South.

An integral part of the University is the Division of Health Affairs, a six-fold center that includes a four-year medical school, dentistry school, pharmacy school, school for nursing and a public health school. All are located in the North Carolina Memorial Hospital, a teaching center for hundreds of clinics in 100 North Carolina counties.

Among the dozens of institutes and specialized programs affiliated with that division are the Health Services Research Center, the Hand Rehabilitation Center, the Child Development and Mental Retardation Research Institute and the Dental Research Center, each of which is one of only a few centers of its kind in the country.

Carolina is one of the largest and top-ranking universities in the nation. A recent rating of graduate schools by the American Council on Education put 12 UNC graduate departments in the highest category and 12 in the second highest. This made Carolina the leader of all universities, public or private, in the Southeast.

Alan Carter of the ACE describes Carolina as "the leading southern university, a liberal voice in the region."

In annual choices made by southern graduate scholars in the Rockefeller grants, more select graduate study at Chapel Hill than any other place.

The University is continuing to grow as it strives to keep pace with the changing world of today. Growth has been especially tremendous in the last 20 years. Those two decades have seen the establishment of the School of Journalism, the School of Business Administration, the Carolina Population Center, the WUNC-TV educational television station, the Ackland Art Center and a new computer system.

In that same time buildings have multiplied; student enrollment has reached nearly 20,000; the faculty has grown to over 1,200; new courses have been added to the curriculum and old ones revised; adult education courses have expanded; and scholarship and development programs have grown.

Here are some other facts of interest about

Carolino Inn

South Building

Morehead Planetorium

Bell Tower

one of America's great universities:

—Carolina's Morehead Planetarium was the first planetarium on a university campus in the world. It features special programs and exhibits and is a training base for U.S. astronauts. The unique Planetarium Sundial allows one to determine the correct time anywhere in the world.

—Thirty-one of North Carolina's 50 governors have been Carolina graduates.

—One of the best-known organizations on campus is the Carolina Playmakers. Former members of the Playmakers include Thomas Wolfe, Paul Green and Betty Smith.

—James K. Polk, an 1818 graduate, became the 11th President of the United States.

—The Institute of Government on campus is a training center for city, county and state officials and employees. It is also involved in research and consultations for state and local governments.

—The University's television network feeds programs into North Carolina public schools.

—In a traditional program of student self-government, undergraduates have their own legislature, system of honor courts and student publications. These include a daily newspaper, "The Daily Tar Heel."

—Another feature is the Institute for Research in Social Science, an organization performing fact-finding duties in sociology, economics, humanities, statistics, journalism and other fields, including race relations, urban studies and regional development.

But perhaps the most outstanding feature of the University is the gentle way the new has been blended with the old to form one of the most beautiful campuses in the world.

Ivy-covered buildings and tree-lined walkways surround spacious, grassy greens where students lounge between classes. Tall pines cover south campus where modern buildings are under construction.

In direct contrast are Gerard Hall, built in 1837, and Old East, the oldest state university building in the nation. The cornerstone to Old East was laid in 1793 and the dorm was dedicated as a national shrine in 1966.

Other famous and beautiful spots around campus are the Old Well, the Davie Poplar, the Carolina Inn, the botanical gardens and Gimghoul Castle.

Despite the change and growth, the basic beauty of this area remains the same. It still truly is "the Southern Part of Heaven."

HOMER RICE

in Tennessee and Highlands High in Ft. Thomas, Ky. In 1961, he received an award as "The Winningest Football Coach in America." His fantastic high school coaching record was 101 wins, nine losses and seven ties.

Rice then went into college coaching and performed the same kind of magic. He was the top assistant coach at the University of Kentucky and then at the University of Oklahoma, where he coached an explosive offensive machine.

In 1967, he was named head coach at the University of Cincinnati and what a job he did at that school. His 1968 team was so explosive that it led the nation in pass offense.

Rice is a leader in the Chapel Hill community. He is on the administrative board of the University Methodist Church. In 1972, he was campaign chairman of the Chapel Hill-Carrboro Community Chest Drive.

He is also on the national conference staff of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Rice wrote the Huddle Prayer for the Pop Warner Little Scholars National Program.

One of Rice's highest honors came in February when he was inducted into the International Churchman's Sports Hall of Fame at Tullahoma, Tenn. and was named collegiate administrator of the year. Some of the nation's most outstanding athletes and coaches have been inducted into that Hall of Fame.

A book, published in 1973, "Homer Rice on Triple Option Football," has drawn raves from football enthusiasts across the country. He has authored two other books on football. The first, "How To Organize Football Practice," was published in 1962. The other, "The Explosive Short T," was published in 1963.

Rice is working on another manuscript entitled "The Attitude Technique." This work will contain ideas for organization, management and motivation for athletic coaching and administration.

Rice is married to the former Phyllis Wardrup of Middleboro, Ky., an alumna of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro. They have three lovely daughters. Nancy, 23, is married to Steve Hetherington and they have a young son, Ryce. The other girls are Phyllis, 21, a senior at the University of Oklahoma; and Angela, 18, a freshman at the University of Kentucky.

THIRTY GREAT GAMES In A Colorful Past

By JACK WILLIAMS

A triple overtime victory over Kansas and Wilt Chamberlain for the National Championship in 1957!

A 87-85 decision over Davidson in the 1969 NCAA Eastern Regionals on Charlie Scott's dramatic shot at the buzzer!

A storybook finish against Duke last year when eight points in the last 17 seconds tied the score and finally resulted in a 96-92 overtime win over the Blue Devils!

Those are some of the greatest games in the history of University of North Carolina basketball. But there have been many others because Tar Heel basketball has boomed ever since the first shot was heard here in 1911.

I have been watching Carolina play basketball for 30 years and I have the battle scars to prove it. I have seen most of the classic Tar Heel games since the mid-1940's. And so in this edition of the Carolina bluebook, I am listing the games I consider the greatest in the last 30 years. Each of these victories had special significance for one reason or another.

You may disagree with my selections. If so, jot down your own list and try it out on your friends. Be an expert in your hometown like I'm trying to be in mine.

Here goes:

1946—Carolina 60, Ohio State 57—Bob Paxton, Bones McKinney, Hook Dillon, Jim Jordan and Co., wrapped up the Eastern Championship with this win, but later lost to Oklahoma A and M and Bob Kurland for the national championship.

1953—Carolina 70, North Carolina State 69—Frank McGuire, brought to Chapel Hill to compete against Everett Case, beat the famed State coach in his first try on the Wolfpack court. Jerry Vayda's shot from the corner won it in the final second. This game set the tone for the great rivalry between McGuire and Case.

Tar Heels clip nets after ACC Championship sweep

1957—Carolina 65, Maryland 61—Carolina's unbeaten streak was in serious jeopardy until Tommy Kearns sank a basket at the buzzer to send the game into overtime. This game, at College Park, was the toughest of the regular season for the Tar Heels.

1957—Carolina 61, Wake Forest 59—Carolina went into this Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament semi-final game unbeaten, but was almost eliminated. Wake led by one with 46 seconds left, but Lennie Rosenbluth hooked in a crazy shot and was fouled on the play. He got three points out of it and Carolina went on to crush South Carolina the next night for the title.

1957—Carolina 74, Michigan State 70 —In the semifinals of the National Tournament, Carolina barely survived in a triple overtime win over the Spartans and their great Johnny Greene. After that, the final the next night seemed anti-climactic. But it wasn't. Read on.

1957—Carolina 54, Kansas 53—This one also went three overtimes and was perhaps the most dramatic game in the history of the NCAA finals. Wilt Chamberlain was awesome, but Carolina had the better all-around cast. Joe Quigg, now a dentist in Fayetteville, sank two free throws with six seconds left to win it. A Kansas pass was batted away and Tommy Kearns retrieved the ball and tossed it to the rafters as the game ended. Lennie Rosenbluth, Carolina's Player of the Year, wasn't around at the finish. He fouled out in the first overtime.

1959—Carolina 90, Cincinnati 88—In the Dixie Classic at Raleigh, Carolina upset the Bearcats and their great star, Oscar Robertson. Lee Shaffer got the winning basket at the buzzer. Big O scored 29 points.

1959—Carolina 72, North Carolina State 68—After State had won the Dixie Classic and had earned the ranking as the No. 2 team in the land, Carolina whipped the Wolfpack on their home court.

1962—Carolina 80, Virginia 46—What a great debut for Dean Smith as the Carolina coach! To this day, he still says it was one of his greatest all-time sports thrills. This game was the start of a magnificent era in Carolina basketball. It had to be included on this list.

1963—Carolina 68, Kentucky 66—When the Tar Heels beat the Wildcats on the Kentucky court, Dean Smith said it proved to him that Carolina could be a big winner again.

1965—Carolina 65, Duke 62—Sparked by the great Billy Cunningham, Carolina beat the Blue Devils on their home court. This was in the era when Duke was kingbee in the ACC and Carolina later did it again on its home court in Chapel Hill.

1967—Carolina 75, Wake Forest 73—Larry Miller intercepted a pass and barely got possession of the ball in time to throw in a crazy shot at the buzzer. It gave the Tar Heels the push they needed to be champions.

1967—Carolina 82, Duke 73—This was in the Atlantic Coast Conference finals at Greensboro and it brought the Tar Heels their first of three straight titles.

1967—Carolina 96, Boston College 80—In the finals of the NCAA Eastern Regional, Carolina whipped a great B.C. team coached by Bob Cousy. The night before, Carolina had gained revenge for a regular season loss by beating Princeton.

1968—Carolina 86, Utah 84—Trailing by 17 points with 13 minutes to go, it looked hopeless for the Tar Heels in the Far West Classic at Portland, Ore. But Charlie Scott and Larry Miller led a comeback which finally resulted in victory.

1968—Carolina 73, Maryland 67—The Terps built up a 26-6 lead in the first half and threatened to run the Tar Heels out of the gym at College Park. But Carolina roared back and actually led at the half.

1968—Carolina 87, North Carolina State 50—It was the most one-sided Atlantic Coast Conference tournament championship game in history. The Tar Heels destroyed Norman Sloan's Wolfpack.

1968—Carolina 91, St. Bonaventure 72—In the first round of the NCAA Eastern Regional at Raleigh, Carolina snapped the Bonnie's unbeaten streak. It was a great night for the Tar Heels as Rusty Clark outplayed St. Bonaventure's great Bob Lanier.

1968—Carolina 80, Ohio State 66—In the national semifinals Carolina gave one of its greatest performances ever, beating a great Buckeye team with ease. The Tar Heels lost the NCAA title the next night to UCLA and Lew Alcindor.

1969—Carolina 87, Kentucky 77—On the Wildcats' home court, UNC beat one of the best Kentucky teams. It was an awesome display by Carolina. The game introduced Lee Dedmon as a new Carolina star.

1969—Carolina 85, Duke 74—Carolina trailed Duke by 11 points at halftime in this ACC championship game. Then Charlie Scott went wiid. He wound up with 40 points and one of the greatest performances in conference history.

1969—Carolina 87, Davidson 85—The heroics didn't end in Charlotte because Scott saved one great shot for College Park and the NCAA Eastern Regionals. In the final game against Davidson, Charlie hit a 30-foot jumper at the buzzer to give Carolina the win. It was a classic game.

1971—Carolina 79, South Carolina 64—The Gamecocks came into Carmichael Auditorium ranked the No. 2 team in the country. But it was a sad night for John Roche and Co. Carolina dominated the game from start to finish.

1971—Carolina 84, Georgia Tech 66—The Tar Heels wrapped up the National Invitational Tournament championship with this win. It was a dynamic performance for Carolina at Madison Square Garden and Bill Chamberlain was voted the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

1972—Carolina 99, North Carolina State 68—Robert McAdoo, in his debut into Big Four basketball, clearly dominated state's tall Tommy Burleson and the Tar Heels scored an important victory in the Big Four Tournament at Greensboro.

1972—Carolina 83, Real Madrid 77—Even the Spanish bullfighters never have heard as much noise as there was in the Real Madrid gym when the Tar Heels won the International Christmas Tournament. Bobby Jones emerged as a Tar Heel hero in this tournament.

1972—Carolina 73, Maryland 64—The Tar Heels won the ACC Tournament championship with a brilliant effort. Tom McMillen, Lennie Elmore and Co., were denied.

1972—Carolina 92, South Carolina 69—In the NCAA Eastern Regionals at West Virginia University, the Tar Heels played one of their greatest games ever. It was a rout and gave Carolina redemption for a tough loss in the ACC finals a year earlier.

1974—Carolina 82, Maryland 73—For the third straight year, Carolina beat Tom McMillen and Co. in Carmichael Auditorium. The Tar Heels took a big early lead and never let up.

1974—Carolina 96, Duke 92—Carolina trailed by eight points with 17 seconds left. But one of the most amazing comebacks ever took place. Finally, at the buzzer to end the regulation game, Walter Davis hit a long shot and it was tied. The Tar Heels had to come from behind again in overtime to win it. Newsmen called it a "miracle."

Kansas players congratulate Lennie Rosenbluth (10) for his performance in National Finals.

John O'Donnell, who excelled on the basketball court and in the classroom at the University of North Carolina, was awarded an NCAA Post-Graduate Scholarship worth $1,000, following last season.

Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, announced that O'Donnell was one of 15 basketball players in the United States to receive the NCAA scholarship award. The only other Atlantic Coast Conference player honored was Tom McMillen of Maryland.

O'Donnell's accomplishment was another in a long line of academic achievements for Carolina basketballers. Traditionally, Tar Heel cagers rank high in academics at the University.

In fact, 10 players on last year's outstanding team made the dean's list. Those on this coveted list, in addition to O'Donnell, were the great Bobby Jones, Brad Hoffman, Ed Stahl, Mitch Kupchak, Charles Waddell, Tommy LaGarde, Bruce Buckley, Mickey Bell and James Smith.

O'Donnell, a senior from New York City, started 18 games for the Tar Heel basketballers last season and was instrumental in leading the team to a 22-6 record.

With a double major in psychology and political science, O'Donnell posted a grade average of 3.505 based on a 4.000 maximum. He was inducted last semester into Phi Beta Kappa and was a candidate for a Rhodes Scholarship.

The NCAA scholarship is awarded for post graduate study at a University or professional school of O'Donnell's choice. He has indicated that he will either study for a PhD in psychology or attend medical school. He eventually hopes to become a psychiatrist.

"We're delighted that John O'Donnell has received this high honor," said Carolina basketball Coach Dean Smith. "He meant so much to our basketball program and he contributed to campus life in many ways. I congratulate him."

NCAA scholarships have been given since 1964 and 80 were awarded in all sports last year. In order for an athlete to win, he must have a B average for at least three years and also be outstanding in his chosen sport.

The selections were made by an NCAA committee of six men headed by Captain John Coppedge, athletic director at the Naval Academy.

HEAD COACH: Ken Stibler (Seton Hall '53)
HIS RECORD: Previous seasons—8, Won—100, Lost—91, Overall—100-91
TEAM HONORS: 1974—2nd place Miami Beach Basketball Classic—Manhattan winner
SERIES: UNC 2, Biscayne 0
LETTERMEN RETURNING: 6-5 f Arthur Collins, 6-5 f Ed Zukowski; 6-8 c Dennis Scholl; 6-1 g Sam Williams; 6-4 f Larry Mokar; 6-4 f Ron Nentwig
LETTERMEN LOST: 6-7 c Ken Tanke; 6-1 g Bill Sheppard
REPLACEMENTS: 6-3 g Bob Valibus; 6-5 f Willie Hymes; 6-3 g Arnon Baptiste; 6-2 g Bob Bustamante; 6-7 c Maurice Thurston
CO-CAPTAINS: Ed Zukowski, Arthur Collins

OUTLOOK

Coach Ken Stibler feels this year's Biscayne team may be his best ever. The main reason for his optimism is an outstanding group of newcomers. The key man is freshman Kevin Fussell, who at 6-9 is the tallest player in the school's history. Other top newcomers include freshmen guards David Zimroth and Richard Hardy and junior college transfers Willie Hymes and Bob Bustamante. Top returning players should be guard Sam Williams, 6-8 Dennis Scholl and 6-4 Larry Mokar.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-7 f Allen Fairfax; 6-3 g Steve Ferris; 6-2 g Tim Mapes
CAPTAIN: Morris Tampa

OUTLOOK

The Buccaneers should be more experienced with good speed and a more potent offense, but will still lack a good big pivot man. Morris Tampa, a good jumper with a soft touch, was the top player at the end of last season. He will be joined by Kenny Reynolds as the offensive leaders. Forward Ron Richardson and guard Charlie Stuart should be ready for good years since both gained valuable experience as freshman starters last season.

LETTERMEN LOST: 6-9 f Sidney Edwards; 6-2 g Donnell Hayes
REPLACEMENTS: 6-1 g Tony Smith; 6-4 g Cecil Rose

OUTLOOK

With three of the top four scorers and rebounders returning from a good 17-9 team last season, the outlook for 1974-75 is bright for the University of Houston Cougars. All-America Louis Dunbar, a 6-9 guard-forward, returns, along with starters Otis Birdsong, a 6-3 sophomore guard; and Maurice Presley, a 6-10 senior center. Two other part-time starters, junior forward David Marrs, 6-8; and senior guard Ed Riska, 6-2, will also return. Dunbar was the team leader in scoring (21.7), second in assists (4.5) and third in rebounding (8.5) last season. Presley was the team leader in rebounding (10.1) and fourth in scoring (14.2). Birdsong, one of the country's top freshmen a year ago, was third in scoring with a 14.3 average.

OUTLOOK

Four returning starters, four other returning lettermen and perhaps the best group of freshmen in the country will make the Wildcats one of the best teams in America. All four starters averaged in double figures last year, led by Kevin Grevey's 21.9. Bob Guyette is a fine center and Jimmy Dan Connor and Mike Flynn are solid in the backcourt. Among the top recruits are 6-11, 245-pound Mike Phillips; 6-11, 235-pound Rick Robey and 6-5, 200-pound Jack Givens. This will be the strongest and biggest Kentucky team of recent years.

LETTERMEN LOST: 6-4 f Mike Baskauskas; 6-7 c Jim Cartmell; 6-4 g Tim Kearns; 6-6 f Jere Shafir; 6-7 c Gary Rinck; 6-2 g Bruce McKenna
REPLACEMENTS: 6-4 f Carnell Cooper; 6-2 g Wayne Heidenreich; 6-7 c Tim Jones; 6-6 c Brad Berger; 6-2 g Keith Kline.
CAPTAIN: Gary Franks

OUTLOOK

Yale will have to find scoring and rebounding punch, with the departure of two-time captain and most valuable player Mike Baskauskas, who led the team in scoring and rebounding a year ago. The backcourt, with veterans Gary Franks, Jim McGuire and Robin Michel, along with a couple of good sophomores, appears to be the team's strongest area. However, up front, only Rollin Chippey and Jeff Ritter are experienced and sophomore Carnell Cooper will be expected to help the rebounding. There are no double figure scorers returning and relatively little height this season.

UTAH

Luther Burden

Coach Jerry Pimm

SCHOOL: University of Utah
LOCATION: Salt Lake City, Utah 84112

COLORS: Red and White

HOME COURT: Special Events Center (15,000)
HEAD COACH: Jerry Pimm (So. Calif. '60)
HIS RECORD: First season
TEAM HONORS: 1974—Second Place NIT
SERIES RECORD: UNC 4, Utah 1
LETTERMEN RETURNING: 6-2 g Luther Burden; 6-8 f Chas Meratti; 6-4 f Doug Terry; 6-0 g Jeff Jonas; 6-6 f Dean Porter; 6-6 f Mike Dunn
LETTERMEN LOST: 6-4 f Scot Jones; 5-11 g Tyrone Medley; 6-8 f Craig Nielsen; 6-8 c Mike Sojourner; 6-8 f Charlie Whiting; 6-9 c Tom Bergen
REPLACEMENTS: 6-4 f Will Garner; 6-0 g Joe Gore; 6-0 g Mike Grey; 6-5 f-g Jeff Judkins; 6-8 c Charles Mathaney; 6-6 f Brad Smith

OUTLOOK

Seven veterans from last year's team which finished 15th nationally and was the NIT runner-up should give the Utes another outstanding team this winter. Top returnee is Luther "Ticky" Burden, a flashy guard who averaged 24.2 points per game last year. Jeff Jonas will join him in the backcourt to make that a big plus for Utah. The major problem is replacing center Mike Sojourner, an outstanding rebounder. If a couple of young players can come through in the frontcourt to give the Utes board strength, Utah could better last year's 22-8 record.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-6 f Colon Abraham; 6-6 f Jim Howell; 6-5 f Stan Rome; 6-4 g Skip Wise
CO-CAPTAINS: Wayne Croft, Van Gregg

OUTLOOK

Clemson had its first winning season in seven years during 1973-74, and with the three top scorers returning, in addition to five other lettermen, Coach Tates Locke is expecting an even wider gap in the won-loss mark. Wayne Rollins, a rising 7-1 sophomore, should be the premier center in the conference. Rollins was second in scoring behind Van Gregg and led the team in rebounding, in addition to blocking 106 opponent shots. Wayne Croft (11.2 ppg) will aid greatly in both scoring and rebounding (8.0 pg).

HOWARD UNIV.

LETTERMEN RETURNING: 6-0 g Warren Hollins; 6-4 f Michael Farley; 6-6 f Vadnay Cotton; 6-5 g Barry Lee; 6-1 g Angelo Council; 6-1 g Ellsworth Hart; 6-5 f Robert Moultry
LETTERMEN LOST: Robert Lewis, Achilles Carroll
REPLACEMENTS: 6-4 f Charlie Allen; 6-6 f Michael Nettles; 6-5 f Gerald Glover; 6-5 f Williams Jones; 6-6 f Jeffrey Taylor; 6-6 f Steven Brown

OUTLOOK

Howard University will try to bounce back from a disappointing 11-15 season and prospects are bright for an improved team. The Bison had a record of 60-22 for three years prior to last season. One of the big reasons for that was star guard Warren Hollins. Hollins missed all of last year with a fractured hand, but is set to go this year. His return will be a major boost to the Bison. Howard also returns three other players who averaged in double figures last season—Vadnay Cotton, Ellsworth Hart and Angelo Council. A key to Howard's success will be how quickly six new forwards can work into the Bison line-up.

LETTERMEN LOST: 6-2 g Tony Byers; 6-1 g Bobby Dwyer; 6-8 c Tim Stare
REPLACEMENTS: 6-7 f Charley Floyd; 6-7 f Rod Griffin; 6-8 c Don Mulnix; 6-8 c Daryl Peterson
CO-CAPTAINS: Mike Parrish, Cal Stamp

OUTLOOK

This will be Carl Tacy's third year as coach of the Deacons and a key one in his rebuilding timetable. Wake Forest teams have shown constant improvement under his guidance and the 1974-75 season is not expected to mar the progression. The Deacs will be led by All-American guard candidate Skip Brown, a fine ballhandler and shooter who ranked among the nation's top frosh a year ago. The frontcourt is deep and talented, but rather small for the competition. All starters return from a year ago, including co-captains Mike Parrish and Cal Stamp.

REPLACEMENTS: 6-7 f Kenny Carr; 5-10 g Craig Davis; 6-2 g Robert Jackson
CAPTAIN: Game captains

OUTLOOK

The Wolfpack, which ended UCLA's domination of college basketball last season, appears to have an excellent chance of successfully defending its national title. Four starters—David Thompson, Monte Towe, Tim Stoddard and Moe Rivers—return off last year's 30-1 team. Top returnee, of course, is Thompson, national player of the year last season. He averaged 26.0 last year. Towe and Rivers are solid in the backcourt, while Stoddard and Phil Spence are fine frontcourt performers. "It's obvious we have a solid returning team," says Coach Norm Sloan, "but we will certainly miss the play of Tommy Burleson at center."

REPLACEMENTS: 6-7 f Lamont Carr; 6-8 c Marc Iavaroni; 6-0 g Tom Briscoe; 6-2 g Dave Koesters
CAPTAIN: To be announced

OUTLOOK

Virginia, under new head coach Terry Holland, faces a rugged road during the upcoming 1974-75 basketball season. Gus Gerard has opted his senior year for a career in professional basketball and the Cavaliers' tallest player at 6-9, sophomore Ed Schetlick, is scholastically ineligible for the first semester. However, Holland has two All-ACC calibre players in 6-7 Wally Walker and 6-3 Billy Langloh. Walker averaged 17.5 points a game last year after a poor start, being hampered by pre-season knee surgery, and Langloh came on strong towards the tail-end of his freshman season, being named to the All-ACC Tournament second team.

OUTLOOK

Coach Lefty Driesell has five established veterans who should once again keep Maryland high in the national rankings. Those returnees are All-ACC guard John Lucas, Tom Roy, Owen Brown, Bill Hahn and Mo Howard. Lucas and Howard will again form one of the top backcourt combinations in America. Top newcomers include freshmen Chris Patton, Brad Davis, Mike Cherry and John Newsome and Steve Sheppard, New York Player of the Year two seasons ago. Replacing the graduated Tom McMillen and Len Elmore will obviously be the Terps' toughest task.

OUTLOOK

South Florida enters a new era under the leadership of new head coach Bill Gibson, former Virginia coach. Gibson says the Golden Brahmans will be playing a run and press style of game. With only two starters returning and one other letterman, plus two redshirts, Gibson had to look for immediate help. To meet this challenge he recruited five junior college players.

The Paladins are coming off their most successful record in modern history, 22-9, and a berth in the Eastern Regionals. Post men Clyde Mayes and Fessor "Moose" Leonard return along with wing man Craig Lynch. Coach Joe Williams must replace his two point starters—Bruce Grimm, who transferred, and Ed Kelley.

OUTLOOK

The addition of junior college player Mike Martin and transfer Mike Green should help board strength. All five starters return, along with six lettermen. More experience should help but the schedule is tough. Tech plays its first 9 of 10 games on the road and faces powers like North Carolina, N.C. State, Maryland, UCLA, South Carolina, and Alabama.

OUTLOOK

The 1974-75 Duke basketball outlook will be a new look. Bill Foster brings a running pressure-style offense and defense from Utah, where he led the Utes to the NIT finals last year and a 15th national ranking. He has a good nucleus of returning players, including starters Bob Fleischer and Kevin Billerman. Fleischer averaged 15.7 points and 12.4 rebounds a game last year. Part-time starters Tate Armstrong, Willie Hodge and Pete Kramer give Duke more quality returning players. Newcomer George Moses will help Fleischer shoulder the rebounding burden.

OUTLOOK

Coach Don DeVoe has a rebuilding job at Virginia Tech, with four starters gone from last year's team. Top veterans will be 6-9 Kyle McKee, 6-0 Dave Sensibaugh, 6-7 Mike Collins and 6-7 Duke Thorpe. The Gobblers have also come up with three junior college transfers who probably can be immediate starters. DeVoe feels Tech will have more physical talent than last year, but worries about the loss of his seniors who were good defenders.

CARMICHAEL

The home of the Carolina Tar Heels is beautiful Carmichael Auditorium. UNC fans call it "Blue Heaven."

It's not exactly a heaven for visiting teams, however, because few of them win in Chapel Hill. In fact, the Tar Heel record at home stands at 72-10 since the doors were opened in 1965.

There were a couple of heartstoppers in Carmichael last year. The Tar Heels defeated Maryland there again, denying the Tom McMillen, Lennie Elmore teams the opportunity to ever win here. And Carolina came from eight points behind with 17 seconds left to beat arch-rival Duke in overtime.

Carmichael Auditorium is located in the tall pine trees at the heart of the Carolina campus. It is considered one of the most beautiful arenas for basketball in the country.

The Auditorium was opened in 1965 and has been the home of four Atlantic Coast Conference championship teams, four Eastern Regional Champions and one NIT champion. Carolina won its 1,000th game in Carmichael three years ago, defeating Virginia by 91-78.

The enthusiastic support given Tar Heel teams in Carmichael is well known. The 8,800-seat arena is filled for every game—and we mean every game. Students often sleep in the Auditorium halls for as much as 24 hours just to buy tickets for a big game.

Most of the Carolina athletic offices are located in Carmichael. Athletic Director Homer Rice and Head Basketball Coach Dean Smith have their offices there. The halls are lined with sketches of many of Carolina's greatest athletes and there are five trophy cases containing awards and pictures from all sports.

The Auditorium is named for the late William D. Carmichael Jr., one of the most popular gentlemen ever to serve on the University campus. He left a lucrative Wall Street business to become associated with UNC.

In Chapel Hill, Carmichael was comptroller and later the vice-president of the Consolidated University. He also served for a time as the Consolidated University's acting president. He died in 1961.

The Auditorium adjoins Woollen Gymnasium, long-time site of varsity competition and now the center of Carolina's physical education and intramural activities.

Carolina players are ranked in the UNC offensive statistics by a composite rating of field goal accuracy, free throw accuracy and rebound, assist and point average. The leader in each category gets 19 points, the second 18, etc. Thus the highest a player can score is 95.0. Defensive statistics and some offensive statistics are not included in this system.

CAROLINA'S GREATEST PLAYERS

From Cobb to Rosenbluth, from the "Blind Bomber" to the "Kangaroo Kid," from Dillon to Jones. The list of basketball greats at the University of North Carolina is an all but endless one.

Basketball has been around Chapel Hill a long time, since 1911, in fact, when Carolina fielded its first team. It's been a boom sport here ever since. Few universities in the United States have produced as many All-Americas as Carolina and the list grows longer almost every year.

The Tar Heels first hit the big-time in the sport in 1924, winning all 23 games and sweeping the national championship. The stars of that team were Jack Cobb, Cartwright Carmichael and Monk McDonald.

While the style of play has changed drastically since then, these men are still recognized as three of Carolina's greatest stars. Cobb, in fact, is a member of the Helms Basketball Hall of Fame.

Although the Tar Heels did not have an All-America like Cobb or Carmichael in the 1930's, there were many outstanding players. Ivan (Jack) Glace, Earl Ruth, Virgil Weathers, Tom Alexander, Jim McCachren and Stewart (Snooks) Aitken made the All-Southern Conference team in that decade.

The big star of the early 1940's was George Glamack—"The Blind Bomber." Glamack had terrible eyesight and could barely see the basket while standing right under it.

However, he developed the uncanny sense of knowing where the hoop was in relation to his position on the court. He perfected a hook shot which he shot with either hand. He was a two-time All-America, Helms Player of the Year in 1941 and now is in the Hall of Fame.

All-America John (Hook) Dillon was the star of the 1946 team which lost to Oklahoma A & M in the national finals. Dillon, however, had an excellent supporting cast in Jim Jordan, Bones McKinney, Jim White and Bob Paxton. Jordan, in fact, had been an All-America in 1945 and the Most Valuable Player in the Southern Conference.

Eleven years later the Tar Heels again reached the national finals. This time they won, defeating Wilt Chamberlain and Kansas in a triple-overtime thriller that rates as one of the greatest college games of all time.

All-America Lennie Rosenbluth was the star of that team. He was National Player of the Year and still holds the UNC career scoring record. Other starters on that team were Pete Brennan (who made All-America the following year), Tommy Kearns, Joe Quigg and Bob Cunningham.

Some of the finest players in Tar Heel history walked the Chapel Hill campus in the 1960's. Lee Shaffer was the Atlantic Coast Conference Player of the Year in 1960 and later became a professional star with the Syracuse Nationals.

York Larese and Doug Moe also starred for Carolina in the early part of the decade. Larese ranks as one of the greatest free-throw shooters Carolina has ever seen. Moe was a sensational all-around star who earned All-America honors in 1961.

A teammate of Moe was Larry Brown who rates as one of the finest playmakers Carolina has had. Brown played on the 1964 Olympic team which swept the Gold Medal. He now is the head coach of the Denver Nuggets of the American Basketball Association.

The "Kangaroo Kid," Billy Cunningham, was the next star on the Carolina scene. He made All-America in 1965 and is regarded as one of the finest forwards in the pro game.

Bob Lewis, a thin sharpshooter from Washington, D.C., stepped into Cunningham's shoes as the next star performer. He holds the school scoring record with 49 points in a single game against Florida State.

One of UNC's greatest players was Larry Miller, an All-America in 1968 when he led his team to the national finals where the Tar Heels fell to Lew Alcindor and UCLA. Miller was twice named ACC Player of the Year. He was a rugged performer who dazzled crowds with driving layups and a great variety of shots.

Bill Bunting, Dick Grubar and Rusty Clark were Carolina starters on teams which won three straight ACC and Eastern titles. Bunting had a great senior season and made All-ACC. Grubar was one of the most popular athletes to wear Carolina blue and was a sparkling playmaker. Clark was a tough defensive performer and a great rebounder.

Then there was Charlie Scott, who may have just been the best of them all. Charlie excelled in every phase of the game. He made All-America in his senior year and was voted ACC Athlete of the Year. In 1968, he starred for the United States in the Olympic Games.

Dennis Wuycik and Robert McAdoo made All-America in the early 1970's and again led Carolina to the national finals. Wuycik was a strong, aggressive forward with a great shooting touch. McAdoo was a sensational scorer and great rebounder.

Then came George Karl, another highly popular player who amazed fans with his daring and diving on the court. He was a three-year starter and an All-ACC selection.

The most recent star was the great Bobby Jones, the All-America off last year's Carolina team. He was a classic defender and a brilliant player around the basket. He is rated as one of the best all-around big men ever to play the college game.

Yes, the list of Tar Heel greats is a long one. And the honor roll is certain to continue growing as long as the game is played in Chapel Hill.

EDUCATIONAL FOUNDATION

Coming off another big year and with the Carolina Athletic Department setting its goals ever higher, the University's Educational Foundation is to be cited for its continuing role in these accomplishments.

All athletic scholarships awarded by Carolina are made possible by the enthusiasm and generosity of Foundation members. The consistent quality of the Tar Heel sports program has coincided with the constant growth of and interest in the Educational Foundation.

An instrumental figure in the Foundation is Ernie Williamson, the executive vice-president.

"Interest reaches a new peak every year," he says. "There are many reasons for this but our overall success, as attributed by our third consecutive Carmichael Cup, is the most important one."

The Educational Foundation currently has over 2,500 members who finance a scholarship program that costs over $500,000 a year.

"Since its inauguration in 1938, the Foundation has provided scholarships, either partial or full, for over 2,000 student-athletes," says Williamson. "The majority of these men are anxious to return contributions which would enable us to award scholarships to others."

Williamson has always contended that a donation to the Foundation is not specifically a donation to athletics. He says that the high caliber young man who is awarded an athletic scholarship is a great representative of the University.

Williamson feels the overall bonus is in helping a worthy young man obtain a college education. Athletics come second.

Any donation to the Educational Foundation is welcome. However, membership in the Rams Club is restricted to those who contribute $100 or more.

"To my knowledge, Carolina is the only school which has an endowment program for athletic scholarships," adds Williamson. "At the present time we have seven endowed scholarships and ten members who are contributing toward an endowed scholarship. Under this program, we have life memberships available and also accept wills and bequests to the athletic program."

Foundation members receive priority on seat locations for football and basketball. A special room on the south wing of Kenan Field House serves as a meeting place for Rams and their families. This area is open two hours before football games and provides a lounge and picnic facilities for those who come early.

"A Foundation membership is a badge of prestige and loyalty to the University," Williamson points out. "Many of our finest members, however did not necessarily attend Carolina. They just heard about our program and felt it was worthy."

It is important to point out that all donations to the Foundation are tax deductible.

ORIGIN AND INCORPORATION

Three loyal and athletic-minded University of North Carolina alumni met in the office of Secretary of State Thad Eure at Raleigh in December of 1938 and organized the Educational Foundation, Inc.

The men were John Umstead Jr. of Chapel Hill, Max Abernethy of Raleigh, and Benton Stacy of Reidsville.

A charter was drawn with these three men as the incorporators and submitted to the late O. Max Gardner, who had his law firm clear it with the Internal Revenue Department as a charitable organization. The charter was issued December 7, 1938.

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Educational Foundation, Inc., is to raise funds for providing scholarships or grants-in-aid at the University to worthy and qualified high school students with athletic ability.

The Educational Foundation, Inc. operates on a dignified and realistic plane in compliance with all of the regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

It has the blessing and good will of all the University administration and, in its unique field, occupies a status similar to that of the Business Foundation, the Medical Foundation, and other money-raising organizations working for the benefit of the University.

The full amount of all donations of Foundation members is used for scholarships and grants. The organization has no administrative expense.

Ernie Williamson

The man who stands at the helm of the Educational Foundation is the popular and capable Ernie Williamson, executive vice-president.

The former star UNC tackle is one of the most active individuals in the Tar Heel sports picture, constantly on the go—talking with Foundation members, speaking to prospective members, or avidly following all of Carolina's athletic teams.

Williamson is a Carolina graduate with A.B. and M.A. degrees. The native of Crewe, Va., played one season of football here under Carl Snavely and was regarded as an outstanding tackle.

He was lured away to professional football and played with Los Angeles and Washington before being sidelined with a knee injury.

Ernie returned to Chapel Hill to finish work on his degrees and then went to the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was an assistant coach there for two years and head coach for three seasons.

He came back to Carolina to accept his present position in 1957. At one time he served as recruiter for the football program.

Williamson loves all sports and is an expert fisherman and hunter.

He is married to the former Elva Smith of Lawrenceville, Va. They have a son, Wayne, 26, and a daughter, Carole, 18.
